COMMERCIAL INFORMATION BUREAU.

(Questions of a scientific and technical character are dealt with elsewhere under "Replies to Correspondents.")

Readers who experience a difficulty in finding the names and addresses of makers or proprietors of trade articles, or who wish to be advised as to products suitable to their requirements, should send a Postcard to the Editor. A Special Department has been organised to supply information of this character, and reliable advice will be sent direct to the enquirer.

The information sought refers, sometimes, to an article with a local sale only, and particulars as to the locality where it is believed to be known will facilitate replies being obtained. Readers who can supply an answer to any query should remember that they may want to know something soon—and should send on the information without delay. Address enquiries and replies—The Editor, "Commercial Information Bureau," 72, Great Russell Street, London, W.C.

COMPANY INTELLIGENCE.

Aug. Royel, Limited.—Capital, £500 in £1 shares. Objects: To acquire, work, turn to account, improve, and adapt certain patents belonging to or being worked by A. Royel, and to carry on the business of drysalters, druggists, chemists, manufacturers of and dealers in chemicals, drugs, salts, etc. Registered office, 7, Denman Street, London Bridge, S.E.

Apollinaris and Johannis, Limited.—The eighth ordinary general meeting was held on July 13 at the Holborn Restaurant. Lord Duncannon presided, and in moving the adoption of the report stated that both sales and profits had increased during the year. The company were able to pay the same dividend (5 per cent.) as usual. The directors placed a considerable sum to the credit of the reserve fund, and carried forward a slightly larger amount than they did twelve months ago. All the advertising expenses of the year had been written off profit and loss account. Since March 31 there had been a very satisfactory increase in the sales. Mr. Julius C. Prince, who seconded the motion, pointed out that the company earned nearly £200,000 a year, and that during the last ten years the business had doubled. The report was adopted.

Rejuvenoids, Limited.—Capital, £2,000, in £1 shares. Object: To adopt an agreement with W. F. Towle, and to carry on the business of agents, chemists, druggists, importers and manufacturers of and dealers in druggists' sundries, etc. Registered office, 102, St. Clement's House, Clement's Lane, E.C.

New Patent Applications.

Process and Apparatus for Manufacturing Carbonic Acid (No. 13,981 of 1904).—E. A. and J. G. Behrens, 18, Richtweg, Bremen, Germany. Relates to an improvement in the process for manufacturing carbonic acid (CO_2) by the combustion of carbon (coke, anthracite) in which water gas, or generated gas (or gas obtained by suction), is first produced from the carbon, and then by the combustion of the said gas a gas containing a great deal of carbonic acid is obtained by causing the gas of combustion under pressure to pass through a solution of carbonate of potassium (K_2CO_3), the temperature whereof is maintained permanently at a height corresponding to the temperature of decomposition of the salt bicarbonate of potassium ($KHCO_3$) whereby the carbonic acid is absorbed under the said pressure and liberated upon the pressure being decreased. The combustion of the water gas or generator gas (or gas produced by suction) is carried out in the cylinder of a motor or gas engine.

Manufacture of Iodine Compounds of Phenol Ethers (No. 20,195 of 1904).—Farbwerke vorm. Meister, Lucius and Brüning, Hoechst a/Main, Germany. Relates to the manufacture of para-iodoxy-compounds of phenol ethers, which possess great antiseptic properties, by oxidising the corresponding iodo-compounds either directly or after they have been converted into the iodo-chloride or iodoso-compounds. Example:—5 Gm. of para-iodo-anisol are shaken with 100 C.c. of a solution of hypochlorous acid of which 1 C.c. = 0·04 Gm. of HClO. The product becomes yellow. After some time more hypochlorous acid is added, and the whole is allowed to stand, and is shaken from time to time, until the yellow colour becomes white. The solid matter, which is now the iodoxy-compounds, is filtered, washed with water, alcohol, and ether, and recrystallised from acetic acid of 50 per cent. strength.

Preparation or Lotion for Restoring and Developing the Growth of Hair on Horses—Said Lotion can also be Used in a Weaker Solution for Aiding the Growth of Human Hair (No. 9,022 of 1905).—A. M. E. A. Lowenfeld, Oakfield, The Park, Cheltenham, Glos. This lotion is made by mixing the following ingredients:—1 oz. oil of terebinth, ½ oz. tincture of cantharides, 1 drachm essence of roses, ½ oz. glycerin, 3 oz. castor oil, and 1 oz. Eau de Cologne.

NOTE.—Opposition to the grant of any of the above-mentioned patent applications must be filed at the Patent Office on or before August 28, 1905.
